The Solution For All Your Batching Needs

Do you look at your current batching equipment and know you could get more out of it? Is it complicated to add new recipes or change existing ones? Do you need a specialized technician or engineer just to change a simple recipe? If you answered "Yes" to any of these questions, TCflexBatch is the affordable and reliable way to a better batch. Here's why:

- Your products are separate from your process. A recipe addition or change to existing equipment requires no programming changes.
- You are in control of what to make, how to make it, when to make it.
- Improve your product quality with detailed, real-time information about your batching operations, including all operator manual actions.
- Realize a greater return on equipment investment now and in the future. Easily duplicate recipes between different sets of equipment and between various plants.
- Get up and running fast. On-site training provided with every product will put you in control of your batching immediately.
- Why not get the most from your equipment investment? TCflexBatch is compatible with ALL BATCH SYSTEMS and integrates with most major PLC and HMI makes and models.
- Put yourself in control of your batching systems. Batching has never been easier!
